Scrap In a Laundry.

George A. Craig and Warren Williams settled a controversy yesterday at the Troy steam laundry a la Jeffeles. Craig came out of the mix-up somewhat the worse for wear, and immediately swore out a warrant for Williams arrest, and the case will be heard before Justice Hutaniski Wednesday morning at 10 a.m. Before the warrant was served on Williams, however, he appeared before Justice Hail, pleaded guilty to assault and battery, and was fined $10, and this fact will be set up as a defense in the trial Wednesday. Craig formerly owned the laundry, and sold out some time ago to Williams. Yesterday he entered the place and demanded of Warren Williams that he be allowed to see the books. Williams refused his demand and ordered Craig from the place. The latter refused to go, which resulted in the parties coming to blows.
